President's Invitation to the Florida League of Cities 87th Annual Conference

Dear Friends:

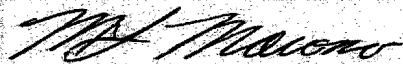

The 87th Annual Conference of the Florida League of Cities is right around the corner – August 15-17, 2013 at the World Center Marriott in Orlando. This year's conference theme – Great Cities Make a Great State – encompasses everything that the Florida League of Cities is about and we'll celebrate that during three days packed full with educational opportunities!

The many workshops scheduled throughout the conference will provide information that all city officials can use as we govern our cities and work for our constituents. The general sessions with powerful keynote speakers will be thought-provoking. And, the timely information on Florida and technical assistance and resource materials from national, state, regional and non-governmental entities will be invaluable.

The schedule includes nationally recognized speakers. Erik Qualman, an MBA Professor at the Hull International Business School, is the author of Socialnomics: How social media transforms the way we live and do business, 2010 Book of the Year. His book Digital Leader helped him be voted the 2nd "most likeable author in the world." Franklin Deese, mayor of the Town of Marshville, North Carolina, is the author of From Inmate to Mayor, which chronicles the struggles that led to his being a convicted felon and his achievements in removing the stumbling blocks from his life that led to his being elected mayor. We are also excited to hear from NLC President Marie Lopez Rogers, mayor of Avondale, Arizona.

This year's conference is a "must attend" event for all successful city officials and city staff. We will all benefit from the information-sharing designed to address our unique municipal challenges. I look forward to seeing you in Orlando as we celebrate the Great Cities that Make Florida a Great State!

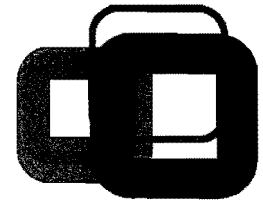

Sincerely,

Manuel Maroño, FLC President
Mayor, City of Sweetwater

Franklin Deese was born in the late 1950s, facing segregation and racism. He grew up in the turbulent 1960s amidst the Civil Rights Movement and efforts to end racial discrimination. He came of age in the 1970s, unable to avoid a system that promoted experimentation with drugs, sex and street life. By the 1980s he was convicted for robbery and spent his early adulthood in the prison system.

In 1989, he was paroled with the clothes on his back and $30.00 in his pocket, facing a daunting challenge to make a life for himself. Through study, mentorship and self-examination, he moved the mountains from his path and eventually rose to be mayor of the Town of Marshville, North Carolina. He is the only African American in the nation to serve 10 years in the prison system as a felon and then be elected to the top job in a city in the same county in which he was convicted. Deese chronicles his struggles and achievements in his book From Inmate to Mayor.

This special session is open to all registrants, guests and members of the public wishing to attend and will include a Q&A period with the actors.
